"Red Domino" is at the Bijou today. It is a picture drama of intense interest. Many termed it one of the strongest, heaviest dramas ever shown in the city. It is beautifully colored and makes a spectacle well worth anyone's time and money. The song, "Maybe It's a Bear," is enjoyable.

Among arrivals at the Hotel Otis yesterday were W. E. Lackey, White River Junction; O. C. Taylor, Burlington; J. W. North, New York; J. S. Spaulding, M. Tesla, Boston; P. M. Honey, Brookfield; Robert T. Maloney, Lawrence, Mass.; W. C. Morris, Newport; Fred W. Putnam, Brattleboro; Charles Lamberton, Albany, N. Y.

If you want to see some real French acting, such as is seen in the best theatres of Paris, witness "The Ugly Girl," this evening at the Dreamland Theatre. The "Punch and Judy" picture is one taken at a big park in New York, and creates a good deal of amusement. It is truly laughable to watch the children spectators.

Clinton F. Miller, local manager of the Consolidated Lighting company, received a letter last night from a former college chum, Prof. Donald McMillan, who accompanied Perry on his successful trip to the north pole, stating that he was to deliver a lecture in Montpelier on Feb. 2, and will visit Mr. Miller. Prof. McMillan is professor of polytechnics in the Worcester, Mass., academy and was a schoolmate of Mr. Miller at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

We wish to express our thanks for the many kindnesses extended to us in our bereavement and also for the many floral tributes.

Mrs. Edna Hansen, Ludwig Matheson, Mrs. Louise Nelson.

The Scented Court.

The rage for perfumes reached its height during the reign of Louis XV. Throughout the continent his court was known as the "scented court." It was then the custom when giving a large entertainment for the hostess to inform her guests what particular odor she would use for perfuming her rooms, and each guest would use that odor in making her toilet. At court a different perfume was used for each day of the week. Much more attention was paid to the use of the perfume than to soap and water, and cleanliness was not numbered among the virtues of that age.

In the 246 towns of Vermont, there are 212 public libraries, besides several school libraries. There are 73 towns without libraries of their own, a part of which number is served by the state traveling library system. In the last ten years, 51 towns have formed free public libraries by voting an appropriation and wearing the $100 given by the state to aid in the establishing of a new library. During the last year thirty-five towns have received annual library aid from the state. There are now sixty-seven library buildings in Vermont.

Part of the carcass of a large doe was found last week in the woods in Poultney near the dugway switch of the electric road. The discovery was made by Paul Wollelienger, of Poultney, who was working on the electric road near that place. His attention was attracted by a trail of blood and trampled snow, which he followed several hundred yards up the hillside and into the woods. The hindquarters of the animal had been removed, apparently cut away with a sharp knife. The skin had been removed but was left, and it was apparent that the person or persons who had taken part of it intended to return for the rest. County Game Warden Harry Chase of Bennington was notified and sent for the remains of the animal, to be taken to Poultney station.
